

Gordana Covic

As the Director of Sport Science, I'm very excited to be able to share the knowledge, experience and special skills training methods that I have gained during more than 23 years working across several sports and disciplines in Croatia, Germany and the United States.

Having worked almost exclusively with individual male athletes and men's teams, I have had a unique opportunity over my career to help athletes reach their potential. This has resulted in numerous successes at both the national and international levels, which gives me a lot of satisfaction. Sports have always played a huge roll in my life since I began playing soccer and handball when I was 7 years old. Ever since, it has been my favorite way to spend time - my real passion!

Being able to share all of my experiences with our younger players is hugely motivating for me, and I look forward to helping them on their way to becoming high-level, elite athletes - the real deal! Come on! ¡Vamos! ¡demo!
